Sean Palmer

*Entrepreneur | M&A Advisor |
Business Leader*

Sean Palmer is a seasoned entrepreneur and M&A advisor with over 30 years of experience across diverse industries. His expertise spans mergers and acquisitions, intellectual property financing, international franchising, master licensing, and innovative capital structuring.

At just 24, Mr. Palmer sold his first business to a Fortune 500 company, igniting a lifelong passion for building, acquiring, and scaling businesses on a global stage. His career began in his family's enterprise in Alabama, which served Fortune 500 clients in the food service sector. After more than a decade gaining foundational experience, he launched his own ventures and quickly earned a reputation as a serial entrepreneur with international scope.

Mr. Palmer is the founder of SnowFox Ventures, a family office focused on advancing intellectual property financing, energy solutions, medical innovation, and data center investments. SnowFox Ventures champions forward-thinking projects across global markets.

Renowned for his strategic insight, resilience, and unwavering commitment to excellence, Mr. Palmer believes perseverance is the cornerstone of success—often emphasizing that true achievement lies in the ability to rise after every challenge.
